

Help me long for Your presence

Help me long for Your presence,
May my soul yearn, even faint,
Let my heart and flesh cry out
To the Living God;
Just a day in Your courts, Lord,
Is worth more than thousands elsewhere,
As Your Spirit's power wells up
From deep within.

*Sing praise to God, my soul,
Whose love redeems, makes whole,
Rich blessings count, my soul, today;
Death's price paid for the home,
By grace, that's now my own;
Sing praise to God, my soul today!*

See Psalm 84: 2 & 10. This song is for Pastor Billy Montgomery, who recently reminded me of that passionate, all consuming, yearning we all need to find - that want to really meet God in worship. Do we really come to a service with that kind of expectation? Make sure that you renew God's purpose for you to worship Him today, for God is seeking worshipers, not just worship. And don't forget that those who worship Him acceptably must do so in Spirit and in truth (see John 4:23-24). See also Psalm 44:26, 2 Corinthians 8:9, and Romans 3:23.

© v3 June 2013 Heart Notes Ministries), Paul G. Barnsley,
Web distribution www.heartnotes.org.uk